MEDICATION, DIET AND CONTRAST INSTRUCTIONS FOR CT ABDOMEN AND/OR PELVIS:

- Continue taking any medications you currently take. If you take insulin or oral medication for diabetes, please consult your physician regarding how much to take and when to take it.
- Inform the technologist performing your exam if you are taking Glucophage, Glucovance, or Metformin.
- Keep ReadiCAT cool. Shake before drinking. Please finish the entire contents of bottles.
 1. Drink the first bottle of ReadiCAT prior to going to bed the night before the exam.
 2. Drink the second bottle 2 hours before your exam is scheduled.
 3. Do not eat solid foods after drinking the 2nd bottle of ReadiCAT.

You may receive an injection of contrast during the examination. If you have had a prior adverse reaction to x-ray contrast material, please advise us and your physician. Premedication may be indicated.

If you are scheduled for a pelvic CT, you may receive an enema of dilute ReadiCAT prior to your procedure.

If you have any questions, please call the site where your appointment is scheduled. Thank you for having your exam at Radiology Ltd.
